

Creativity as Sacrament

Experiencing The Mystery, Grace, and Power of Self-Expression

a workshop with
Jan Phillips

This workshop addresses creativity as a sacred gesture—one that involves collaboration with the Divine as a primary element of self-expression. Imagine that Spirit is seeking to create through us, to regenerate Divine Being into this culture, Spirit/Word waiting to be made flesh through our creative expressions. Imagine yourself the vessel of transmission, one chosen to birth the sacred in word, song, clay, image. Imagine the power and the grace of the Divine moving up through your depths, clearing your cloudiness, lighting your life as it makes its way into the world.

- Discover your inner voice and what it has to say
- Understand the importance of your creativity and its contribution to the world
- Find new ways to honor your work and give it the time it deserves
- Experience the joy of surrendering your fears and allowing Spirit to be released through you

"This workshop is an opportunity for each of us to make contact with the Divine in ourselves and each other. We will learn to approach our creative work from a new angle and get past the forces that have kept us silent. The world needs our voices now. Let us learn to send them out there with confidence, compassion, and courage." – Jan Phillips
